sraelis seal occupied regions

ournalists barred, Arabs confined to homes and villages

sociated Press

ERUSALEM — The Israeli army on Monday osed its broadest clampdown yet on the 1.5 ion Palestinians living in the occupied territo-, sealing the regions for three days to combat a 0 day of protest.

he army also announced it was barring nalists from the territories for the first e in the four months of unrest that have 119 Palestinians and one Israeli soldier d.

nder the measure, the 650,000 Arabs in a will be banned from leaving their es, while the 850,000 Palestinians on the t Bank will be confined to their villages and ns, the army said.

he three-day closure began at 10 p.m. Monday e Gaza Strip and at 1 a.m. Tuesday in the West k, an army statement said.

he restrictions also bar Palestinians from cross- the two bridges over the Jordan River, the y said. Incoming traffic from Jordan will be permitted, however. The orders also forbid Palestinians living in the territories from entering Israel, affecting about 110,000 Arab workers.

The 65,000 Jewish settlers who live in the occupied territories will be permitted to move freely.

In Washington, the State Department criticized Israel for sealing off the territories.

> State Department spokesman

"We regret the decision because of the impact it will have on commerce, on visits with family members and the press," spokesman Charles E. Redman said.

On Friday, the department advised U.S. citizens to avoid travel to the areas because of continuing disturbances.

The closure followed a mass arrest campaign aimed at preventing violence Wednesday, when Palestinians mark Land Day, the 12th anniversary of a 1976 clash between soldiers and Arabs over the confiscation of Arab land. Six Palestinians were killed.

The Palestine Liberation Organization has ordered widespread protests against Israeli troops and Jewish settlers.

Israel's ability to deal with expected unrest on Land Day is viewed as a major test of the military's muscle to quell the uprising that began Dec. 8.

The closure "stems first from our desire to tell the Arabs 'You decided on Land Day, so let's have a confrontation. We'll see who wins,'" Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said on Israel radio.

"Remember, we have not exhausted every means of control at our disposal."

Rabin said the measures also were taken to prevent Arabs from the occupied territories from inciting violence among Arabs who live in Israel.

reg Goodwin, director of eco-ic development for the Park City mber of Commerce, said Park 's income is "exceptional" com-d to other cities.

octors, lawyers, store owners, auranteurs and the like, make up City's 4,500 population. "Thirty ent of our people commute to Salt e City," Goodwin said.

When you have a high concentra- of highly educated people in one of the state," the per-capita in-e will be higher, he said.

rk City also has less children per a, unlike Provo which has a high ber of children. There are ap-imately 250,000 people in Utah ey and 100,000 of those are chil- and students, said Steve Dens- president of the Provo/Orem nber of Commerce.

With so many young children, stu-s and college kids, there are not a of people making money," said sley.

ah has the largest percentage of population under 18 in the coun-and all those are calculated into the per-capita income, said Natalie Gouchnour, research analyst for the Utah State Data Center.

"Provo is not a poor area, but with the high student population you wouldn't expect students and kids to have high incomes. The lower income cities tend to be in the rural areas where they don't have a high cost of living," she said.

Utah's per-capita income is $8,535, according to 1985 census numbers figured on a city-by-city basis. But when welfare and fringe benefits are calculated into the total personal income, the state's per-capita income rises to $10,493.

Utah ranks lowest among the census' mountain division, which includes Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana. Only the southern central division has an overall per-capita income lower than the mountain division.

Per-capita income is figured by dividing total personal income by population.

Personal income has many sources including rent, dividends, wages and salaries, said Gouchnour.

Provo's per-capita income ranks it 153 out of 226 incorporated cities in Utah.

Orem ranks 106th with a per-capita income of $7,094.

The top three Utah cities in the census were all ski resorts. Park City was 20 percent above that of second-place Brian Head's $13,998. Alta was in third place with $11,943. Salt Lake City, Utah's largest city, ranks seventh with $10,248.

Mayor welcomes Japanese students; 11 youth will stay with local families

By RALEEN BECKHAM
Universe Staff Writer

Mayor Joe Jenkins formally welcomed 11 Japanese youth to Provo City on Monday as part of their 10 day student exchange program, said Ken Ivory, the American contact for the exchange program.

According to Jenkins, "This is a great program for building bridges of understanding between countries and it has great potential."

While staying here in Provo, the students are living with local families and are participating in activities including a tour of BYU, a trip to the Great Salt Lake and Temple Square," said Ivory.

Some of the students also participated in Y-Day activities last weekend, he said.

According to Harumi Iwata, chaperone of the group from Kofu, Japan, "Staying in homes of American families is the best way for these students to learn about the American lifestyle."

Ivory also said, "The potential that this kind of program has in bringing people closer together is incredibly important for the future of our community and state, as well as our nation."

"This is the second group of Japanese students to visit Provo which has initiated interest in sending local students to Japan under the same program," said Ivory.

According to Ivory, this July local high school students who are members of their school's Asian club will have the opportunity to visit Japan for three weeks through the Japan Exchange '88 Program.

Ivory said that although the students only stay in Provo for usually two to three weeks, it still allows local families a chance to become more familiar with Asian cultures.

Soldiers in Panama storm Marriott Hotel, hold foreign journalists

Associated Press

PANAMA CITY, Panama — Soldiers firing into the air burst into the capital's leading hotel and detained opposition leaders and foreign journalists after an anti-government demonstration was smashed by authorities.

The military confiscated the film of foreign television crews at the Marriott Hotel, which has been used for weeks as an informal headquarters by scores of American and other reporters and leaders of the National Civic Crusade.

Opposition spokesmen said nearly 20 of their leaders were detained. Eight foreign journalists, including Richard Cole of The Associated Press, were taken away and held for about three hours.

The Civic Crusade, a leading anti-government coalition, staged the afternoon protest march in an attempt to force the ouster of Panama's military strongman, Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

Five leaders of the march were arrested. The violence Monday coincided with the beginning of the second week of a general strike that has closed down an estimated 90 percent of Panama's industry and commerce.

Gunmen dressed in civilian clothes but believed to be members of the Defense Forces's state security force, and helmeted soldiers carrying assault rifles, swept into the Marriott about three hours after the street demonstration was put down and forced their way into temporary offices of NBC, CBS, ABC and CNN, among others.

They ordered employees out of the suites at gunpoint, then searched the rooms, confiscating the networks' film of the earlier demonstration and other equipment, including gas masks and bullet-proof jackets.

A police officer on the scene who declined to identify himself said about 40 people were taken away. They included members of the Civic Crusade and journalists, both local and foreign.

Cole, a reporter from the AP's Miami bureau, and the seven other foreign reporters were released unharmed.

"We went there (to the hotel) to neutralize the crusade's center of operations," Maj. Felipe Camargo later told Cole and the other detained journalists.

Cole said the reporters were packed in police vans and taken to state security headquarters in Panama City. There, he said, authorities searched and interrogated them, photocopied their documents and notes and told to line up facing a wall.

Later the reporters were transferred to a nearby baseball field where about 40 other people, at least two of whom appeared to have been beaten, were being processed by army officials.

'Unsung heroes' to receive Brigham Awards at Unforum

"Late Morning with David Letterman" will be the theme of today's Unforum '88 at 11 a.m. in the Marriott Center, according to the ASBYU public relations director Daniel Ashby.

A take-off from David Letterman's popular late night television show, Unforum '88 will feature "Stupid Roommate Tricks" rather than "Stupid Pet Tricks," Ashby said. Video clips of the more humorous moments on campus will also be shown.

"In years past, the Unforum has traditionally proven to be one of the largest attended assemblies on campus," said Ashby.

"Students should attend simply because it will be entertaining and an all-around good show," he said.

"The Unforum has been a presentation that has shown some of the lighter side of student life," said Tamara Quick, director of Student Programs.

Rob Daines, ASBYU president and Executive Vice President Jeff Kerr will introduce the 1988 recipients of the Brigham Awards.

This is the second year that students will be honored for their accomplishments in service or overcoming personal obstacles, according to Quick.

"The award is unique in that each year the students attempt to honor just a few out of the many thousands of 'unsung heroes' in our university community," said Quick.

The Pep Squad, complete with Cosmo and Pee Wee Herman, will appear in addition to the Ballroom Dance Team and the jazz band Synthesis, said Ashby.

More than 2,000 students help

Y-Day produces clean community

By ADILSON PARRELLA
Universe Staff Writer

Y-Day resulted in more than 2,000 students being involved in service projects such as planting 3,600 trees and cleaning up 5 blocks on Center Street and many other work projects, said the vice president of ASBYU Student Community Services Office.

Maryann Goodsell, a senior from Salt Lake City, majoring in interior design, said, "It was very exciting to see the students out there involved in aiding the community ... I think it is impressive. And if BYU is really the light in the hill, as far as universities go, it is impressive that they were involved in it."

Goodsell said that BYU students demonstrated last week that service is important by their participation in the Y-Day activities.

She said students participated in cleaning the Vivian Park, Canyon Glen, Nuns Park and South Fork Campground. "They planted sod at the Utah Lake and planted more trees out there and cleaned up the cemetery.

"We also cleaned up the Brigham Young Academy, pruning and doing some sprinkling to prepare that for the spring," she said.

Students cleaned up the yards of the houses of about 20 elderly people whose yards were too large for them to take care of, said Goodsell. "A whole stake went through and took care of all that with the boy's club as well."

Roy Peterman, manager of BYU grounds, said that the students participated in doing some cleaning up on campus and that another group of students worked cleaning up the Wilderness Park.

Goodsell said that 1978 was the last time BYU students participated in a Y-Day activity. "And that was when they did the final white washing of the 'Y'." She said that one of the reasons why there hadn't been a university-wide activity since then was because of the difficulty of organizing 27,000 students to work on any kind of project.

"It is an enormous task," said Goodsell. And because the enrollment was so large at the time, many people thought it wasn't possible to do. "But we thought otherwise," she said.

According to Rob Daines, president of ASBYU, Y-Day makes a nice transition to next year's BYUSA, which will be more focused on the students and on providing opportunities for them to serve.

"I think it is a kind of bookend to the year and makes a nice transition to next year, he said."

Another function of Y-Day was to try to re-introduce the tradition to campus, he said, "so it will take root this year and hopefully, next year, involve more students and more members of the community to have a better chance to serve."

According to Daines, Y-Day was also an opportunity to serve the BYU married students. He said a lot of married students brought their children to the activities. "We were able to reach a population of the campus, which (in the past) we hadn't done very well," said Daines.

Tamara Quick, director of Students Programs, said that besides the work projects, Y-Day included two dances and fireworks, a marshmallow roast and hot dogs at the Cougar Stadium.

"We had Concerts Impromptu, games and banana splits for families in the ELWC. At Helaman Halls we had hot dogs, yogurt, drinks, a volleyball tournament, a band and cowgirls," said Quick.

Indian activist killed in North Carolina

PEMBROKE, N.C. — Commissioners in racially troubled Robeson County on Monday called for the appointment of a special prosecutor to investigate the slaying of an Indian activist running for judge.

Meanwhile, supporters of the activist, 42-year-old Julian Pierce, said they would seek to change a state law that would automatically make his opponent in the primary the winner of the election.

Pierce, a lawyer and Lumbee Indian, was slain at his rural home over the weekend by three shotgun blasts in what Sheriff Hubert Stone called an assassination.

Commissioners adopted a resolution asking District Attorney Joe Freeman Britt, Pierce's primary opponent, to ask the state attorney general for a special prosecutor. The resolution is not binding, said Commissioner Wayne Oxendine.

Telephone calls to Britt's office Monday were not immediately returned by the district attorney.

Backers of Pierce also said they will seek a special legislative session to allow a substitute candidate in the May 3 primary for Superior Court judge.

Harvey Godwin, Pierce's campaign manager, said the 25-member Committee to Elect Julian Pierce decided Sunday night to ask Gov. Jim Martin to call a special legislative session to change the law to allow a substitute candidate in the May 3 primary for Superior Court judge.

American troops return from Honduras

FORT BRAGG, N.C. — The first American troops to return from a training mission in Honduras to counter a Nicaraguan advance earlier this month parachuted into their home base Monday amid cheers of relatives and friends.

An estimated 800 soldiers dropped into the Sicily Drop Zone at Fort Bragg, home of the 82nd Airborne Division, about 5 p.m. They were met by a military band and commanding generals from the base.

Earlier in the day, the troops from the 82nd Airborne whistled as they boarded seven c-141 transports for the United States.

"It's great to be going home," said Sgt. Dale Taylor, 22, of Red Springs, N.C. "It's going to be a sis-boom-ban occasion. They're going to have a band and our families will be there."

Outside the Palmerola Air Base in Honduras, about 200 Hondurans demonstrated their support for the Americans. They carried signs saying, "Thanks for having helped us maintain our liberty" and "Unity makes for democracy, thanks for being here."

Senate committee recommends treaty

WASHINGTON — The Senate Armed Services Committee voted 18 to 2 on Monday to recommend the Senate ratify the new treaty banning U.S. and Soviet medium-range nuclear weapons worldwide.

But the panel said a serious question remains about whether negotiators intended the pact to ban futuristic, advanced technology weapons or only nuclear-armed medium-range ballistic and cruise missiles.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga, the Armed Forces Committee chairman, said other ambiguities also must be resolved before the Senate votes on the pact.

He said these include potentially misleading language in the treaty text and the issue of whether a missile tested in both long- and medium-range modes is permitted or banned by the pact.

Nunn said his reading of the treaty language suggests that ground-launched ballistic or cruise missiles "which destroy their targets through more futuristic or exotic means would not be covered."

"If this reading is correct, then the treaty would appear to allow ground-launched ballistic missiles or ground-launched cruise missiles that destroy targets through such means as lasers."

Gephardt withdraws presidential bid

Rep. Richard Gephardt quit the Democratic presidential race today, a victim of mounting losses in the seven weeks since he won the lead-off Iowa caucuses. Rival Jesse Jackson, on the rise with a victory in Michigan, said he expects the party to embrace him as its nominee if he wins the most pre-convention delegates.

Gephardt, who declared his candidacy in February 1987 and actually began campaigning more than a year earlier, said at a Capitol Hill news conference, "It's time to end a presidential campaign."

He said he would file for re-election to his House seat on Tuesday "to continue my fight for the people whose concerns have been at the heart of this campaign."

The Missouri congressman noted that it is often said that an opera isn't over "until the fat lady sings." Referring to his distant third-place finish in the Michigan caucuses, he said, "Last Saturday in Michigan, I think I heard her walking to the microphone."

Army reconsiders Utah biolab location

WASHINGTON — The Army will reconsider building a biological warfare defense testing laboratory at Utah's Dugway Proving Ground in the wake of opposition from Gov. Norm Bangerter, Sen. Orrin Hatch and Rep. Wayne Owens.

A Pentagon spokesman said that Jay R. Sculley, assistant Army secretary for research and development, and John M. Shannon, assistant secretary for installations, met Monday to review the biosafety level-4 lab's complex sitting in the wake of growing political opposition.

The lab would be used to test the effectiveness of soldier's protective gear against biological agents. Level-4 is the highest containment standard for biological warfare defense research, and would involve study of fatal disease systems without known cures or treatment.

Although the Army has said it had no plans to conduct such experimentation, Utah political figures are unconvinced. Hatch, R-Utah, has called the lab an "incredible risk," saying "it would be unconscionable to subject Utahns" to its potential dangers.

Consecutive editorials call for resignation; Koch ignores them

Associated Press

NEW YORK — On Feb. 15, 1986, the Amsterdam News printed a front-page editorial calling upon Mayor Edward I. Koch to resign.

Koch ignored it.

He has now ignored 110 consecutive editorials on the front page of the newspaper demanding that he leave office.

"Mr. Koch is incredible. Every week he gives me something new, something outrageous, something wrong" to write about, says Wilbert A. Tatum, author of the editorials and editor-in-chief of the 40,000-circulation weekly.

While the Amsterdam News generally comes down on the left side of the political spectrum, it is considered the establishment black newspaper and less radical than some others published in the city.

Tatum has written anti-Koch editorials while traveling in Zimbabwe, Sweden, Britain and Ethiopia. He has focused on corruption, racial tensions, homelessness — all of them blamed on the "weak and fading" Koch.

Koch is "mean-spirited and vindictive," Tatum wrote (March 8, 1986). He "postures, preens and pontificates as he poses and pretends to be mayor of all the people of New York City," Tatum said (Jan. 3, 1987).

Man charged with burglary

By LESLEY C. BURDICK

A BYU student was recently charged with breaking into the BYU testing center, according to BYU police.

Glenn J. Elston, 24, from Rock Island, Ill., majoring in accounting, was charged March 18 with criminal mischief, a class-A misdemeanor, according to Provo City 8th Circuit Court records.

It was reported that the alarm at the Heber J. Grant Building (testing center) went off March 18 at 8:38 p.m. When the police arrived, there was a man using the telephone on the first floor. The man was asked if he heard or knew anything of what had happened and was then allowed to leave.

This type of questioning helps to identify who was in the area during the suspected crime, said Paul Bringhurst, crime prevention specialist at BYU.

The testing center manager, Lewis J. Wood, told police a student had been caught cheating on a test earlier that day. The name of the student corresponded with the name of the man using the telephone.

The police went to the man's residence and discovered burglary tools in his possession. At the testing center there was evidence of the use of such tools, according to the police report.

The man was arrested, charged and later released on his own recognizance, according to the report. His arraignment has been set for April 7.

The case has been sent to University Standards, said Bringhurst.

Ensemble plays Looney Tunes

U's Panoramic Steel Band and Percussion Ensemble is one of e most popular concerts of the year. The groups will perform night at 7:30 in the Madsen Recital Hall, HFAC.

Vith 50-gallon steel drums, a hot , a hammer and the calypso sounds he Caribbean, Trinidad created a v instrument and new sound which found its way to the BYU campus. The Panoramic Steel Band and the Percussion Ensemble will be performing a variety of music which promises to be one of the most entertaining concerts of the year.

"Every year it's been a sold-out concert," said Ron Brough, director of BYU's percussionists and steel band.

According to Brough, the steel drums were created in the late '30s or early '40s. The U.S. Army provided the oil drums and the people of Trinidad did the rest. The oil drums are tempered with fire and then tuned with a ball-peen hammer.

"Each bump on the drum tunes the drum to a specific sound," said Brough. "The high and low octaves are created by either pinching or loosening the drum."

According to Brough, the qualifications of the musicians is that they be able to read music, have some rhythmic ability and a light touch. "The tune of the drum can be damaged if the musician were to dent the drum."

The steel band will perform four calypso-style selections: "Pan Here to Stay," by Lord Kitchener; "Confusion," by Cliff Alexis; "This Feeling Nice," by Len Sharpe; and "The Hammer," by David Rudder.

BYU's Percussion Ensemble will recreate the sounds from Saturday morning cartoons. The band will perform theme songs from cartoons such as Looney Tunes and The Flintstones.

"We'll provide the sound effects you hear on those cartoons and you can see how they are made," said Brough. "Instruments" in the work will include a whoopie cushion, fog horn, siren whistle, cricket clickers and glass broken in a bucket.

Other ensemble works to be performed will be "Inmates Lullaby," an easy-listening work popular in the '70s and "Gainesborough" by Thomas Gauger, a classic percussion work.

Another work that will be performed is Beethoven's Scherzo, from Symphony No. 9, which has been adapted with bongos, tom toms, anvils and other percussion instruments; and a premier work, Rondo, by BYU composition student Michael Kosorok.

Kosorok is a recipient of the Barlow compositon grant, an arm of the $1 million Milton and Gloria Barlow Endowment, which is administered through BYU.

The concert will take place in the Madsen Recital Hall at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the Music Ticket Office in the HFAC.

College accreditation not available in all Fine Arts departments

By NANCY LILYA
Universe Staff Writer

The College of Fine Arts and Communications received full accreditation to three departments and are in the process of being accredited in two other departments.

The Departments of Theatre and Film, Music and Communication are fully accredited by a national accreditation organization that regularly evaluates curriculum standards. The university as a whole is evaluated by the North West Association of Secondary and Higher Schools.

Each organization has different standards for each department that is evaluated, said Dallas M. Burnett, associate dean of the College of Fine Arts and Communications. "Each department is reaccredited every four, six or 10 years and receive a stamp of approval," said Burnett.

"For example, the Theatre Department is reaccredited every 10 years and the Communications Department every six years," Burnett added.

The organizations who accredit the departments use professional and educational people to make sure no violations have been made. They look at a department's facilities, check claims and interview students, according to Gordon Whiting, chairman of the Communications Department.

"In most cases a college graduate needs to graduate from an accredited school, one that is recognized by a main professional body," said Whiting. He added that potential journalists should go on an internship for experience in a job before entering the workfield.

The Art and Design Departments are in the process of being fully accredited.

The Art and Design Department have a great chance of being accredited, according to Rose.

Three-country-issued stamp cherished by stamp lovers

An historic first in the chronicles of the U.S. Postal Service — a three-nation stamp issuance — is being hailed in philatelic circles all over the world.

Finland, Sweden and the United States are issuing stamps honoring the 350th anniversary of the settlement of New Sweden on the North American continent by Swedish and Finnish immigrants. All the stamps are international airmails.

The design basic to all three adhesives features an illustration from a 1702 book on the New Sweden colony by Thomas Campanius Holm, the first Swedish publication about America.

A map of the area, which shows the various frontiers of the colony from its founding in 1638 to 1655, is pictured on the left. On the opposite side, a world map a pears with Sweden and Finland highlighted in the upper right. Two Swedish ships that arrived in the New World are also included in the design.

The Swedish stamp is part of a booklet of six different stamps honoring New Sweden. Only full booklets will be available, not individual stamps.

Also available: a $5 U.S.-Sweden-Finland joint issue folder, "The American Letter," and a $7.50 New Sweden brochure, a product of the Swedish Post Office.

The U.S. stamp will be available at most post offices throughout the country. However, the Finnish stamp, Swedish stamp booklet, "The American Letter" and the New Sweden brochure will be available by mail order only.

First-day cancellations of the U.S. airmail can be obtained as follows:

You may purchase the stamp at your local post office and affix it to your own envelope. The international airmail rate is 44 cents. No remittance is required.

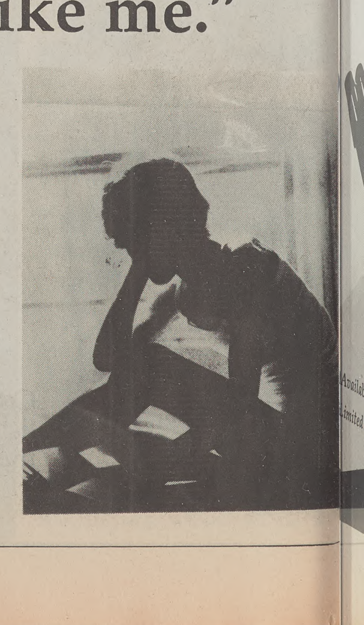
"I thought if I gained weight, nobody would like me."



For teenagers and young women, the pressure to stay thin can be overwhelming. For some, the fear of gaining weight becomes an obsession - an eating disorder. If she eats very little, it's called anorexia. If she eats enormous amounts of food and then makes herself vomit, it's called bulimia. Both are life threatening disorders that require immediate and specialized medical attention.

Help To Overcome Anorexia Or Bulimia
Utah Valley Regional Medical Center offers an effective and successful treatment program to help women overcome eating disorders. Each person is individually evaluated and assigned a hand-picked team of experienced eating disorder specialists. Also, because we're a full service hospital, both the emotional and physical aspects of anorexia and bulimia can be treated. Most importantly, the program works.

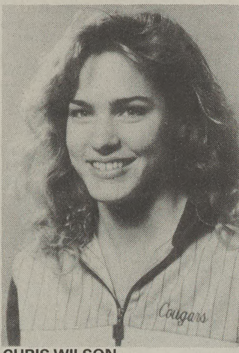
The women had one team member alify for NCAA competition. YU's Chris Wilson qualified for the CAA's in the high jump with a jump six feet even, which was also ough to grab first place in the ent. And just one week before the izona State Invitational, Wilson mpeted in the women's NCAA div- championships.

In this meet, the high jump was ain a strong point for the BYU n's team. They took first, second l third place in the event. Dave mpson won the event while Ronn ymond and Phil Adams came in ond and third. The winning height s 6 feet, 11.5 inches for Sampson.



CHRIS WILSON

Tim Hesse of BYU won the 400-meter event with a time of 46.57. Cougar teammate Frank Fredricks was victorious in the 200-meter with a winning time of 20.72, while Hesse took second behind Fredricks.

The two other first place finishes for the men's squad came in the 800-meter and the 5,000-meter events with Cougars Russ Muir and Larry Smithee winning each respectively.

Another BYU first place came at the hands of the women's team. BYU tracksters Kathy Gordon, Michelle DuToit, Stephanie Packham and Maxine Scringer captured the 4-by-400 with a time of 3:48.72, just barely edging out the University of Washington squad by two seconds.

"We worked our sprinters really hard last week so they were a little tired and didn't run sharp," said Craig Poole, BYU's women's head coach. "Patrick Shane's distance runners are right on schedule, so all-in-all we're very pleased with the progress of the team and are looking forward to our outing at UNLV next weekend."

BYU also provided some strong performances with several other second place finishes.

Karin Colberg placed second in the discus with a throw of 152-5 and Nancy Anderson grabbed second in the 5,000-meter with a time of 17:07.34.

For the men, Dave Chipman of BYU came in second in the 1,500-meter while posting a 3:45.75 time.

"Despite the heat, they still performed well; I was pleased," said Robison. "If this had been a scoring meet, I think we probably would have won it."

The Cougars will be at home this weekend to host the BYU Invitational Saturday on the outdoor track.

Geneva Steel Plant needs investments to remain operating

Associated Press

OREM — Geneva Steel will require up to $185 million in capital investments over the next five years to maintain its potential for creating new jobs in central Utah, a new study says.

The study, drafted by Hatch Associates Consultants of Buffalo, N.Y., states that investment is needed to refurbish aging equipment at the 44-year-old mill.

The engineering firm's report is the first phase of a two-part, $75,000 study commissioned last year by the Mountainland Association of Governments and the Geneva Advisory Board. The study is funded by a $200,000 federal Economic Development Administration grant.

Last August, Basic Manufacturing and Technologies of Utah bought the plant from USX Corp., resuming production at idled plant and hiring 1,900 workers.

The first-phase report says Geneva Steel's continued success is paramount to Utah County economic growth. A development strategy using the steel plant as its base for job-creation efforts will make Geneva jobs more secure and develop economic opportunities not directly related to the steel mill.

Researchers said reopening of the plant coincided with a peak in the demand for steel, resulting in a full order book for the next six months and a high initial level of employment.

Televised courses approved by board to help with growth in Utah's colleges

By BRIAN P. MAULDWIN
Universe Staff Writer
and Associated Press

The State Board of Regents has agreed to allow each of the state's nine colleges and universities to offer television courses throughout Utah.

"The change now allows universities to telecast courses out of their geographic service area," said Vicki Varela, public affairs officer for the Board of Regents.

Without the change, television courses could be offered only in the limited geographic service areas of each institution, greatly restricting the number of people who could benefit from the program.

All but Dixie College will soon be linked via a microwave system and KULC-TV, Channel 9, statewide.

"The courses can be set up in a variety of ways," said Varela. "The student can watch the lectures on Channel 9 at home and then take the tests at the end of the term or whenever the professor arranges it. What's nice about the program is that the general public can watch and learn, too."

About 1,500 students are enrolled in five courses telecast over Channel 9. Television courses have included Utah geography, computers, money management, American history and health.

Some regents had reservations about the policy change.

Regent Donald B. Holbrook said that by eliminating the service areas, institutions may duplicate offerings.

Furthermore, universities may opt for lower level courses to attract students and tuition revenue — instead of telecasting graduate level classes unavailable in outlying areas, according to College of Eastern Utah President Michael Petersen.

Under the policy change, academic vice presidents will decide which will coordinate offerings to avoid duplication.

"Basically (the educational telecasts) are only one of the many ways we're trying to deal with enrollment growth," said Varela. "We've got to think of alternative ways of offering education to people who can't come to the university or who live in outlying areas."

BYU student delivers three children

By APRIL LOWRY
Universe Staff Writer

If you thought having one baby was a strain, try having three — all at once.

A BYU student and her husband became the proud parents of triplets — two girls and a boy born March 19. Patricia Morrison, 21, an elementary education major, gave birth to Ashlee, 4 pounds 12 ounces, Chase, 5 pounds 5 ounces and Lohren, 3 pounds 15 ounces.

The triplets' father, James, 27, an identical twin, was glad his children were fraternal so they could have their own identity. All three of the babies were given their own color, Ashlee is red, Chase blue and Lohren yellow. All of their clothes, blankets, bottles and pacifiers are that color. This will also help the infants to have their own identity.

Patricia and James traveled to Europe after he graduated from BYU in August. "There must have been something in the water over there," James said in reference to the multiple births.

The Morrisons suspected they were having twins, but during an ultrasound four months ago, the third baby was discovered. Patricia said her husband took it harder than she did. The nurse had to sit him down and see if he was all right, she said.

Since that time James has been taking care of his wife, who spent three and a half months of her pregnancy in bed, preparing her family for the triplets and interviewing for employment. He graduated in financial planning and said, "We'll need that, I'm sure."

BYU student Patricia Morrison holds her triplets before their release from the hospital. The babies' father sarcastically blames the multiple births on the water in Europe during a trip in 1987.
